This collection consists of around 500 soil conservation aerial photos and 6 map indexes to a 1951 flight. All photos were taken of Albany and its surrounding areas during 1960, 1962, and 1964. The Albany Soil Conservation Service collected the photos. During processing, the photos were moved from their original boxes to the vertical file where sheets of paper were used to signify which pictures were located in the same box, also, any information written on the original boxes was transferred to the piece of paper.
